Introduction

The National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotations (NASDAQ) System is a worldwide electronic communications network that receives, stores, and transmits price and volume data for more than 5,500 domestic and foreign securities, linking millions of individual and institutional investors and thousands of broker-dealers.

The NASDAQ market is supported by a wealth of automated services that provide market participants with instant, up-to-date information. The same powerful computers that drive the NASDAQ System also work to ensure the integrity of the market through constant automated monitoring and surveillance.

NASDAQ's unique strength is its competitive, multiple market-maker system and its fast-growing companies. Today, only 17 years old, NASDAQ is the second largest stock market in the United States — and the third largest in the world — in terms of dollar value of shares traded.

The NASDAQ Fact Book, published annually by the NASD, provides extensive data on the performance of NASDAQ securities, as well as statistics on the NASDAQ market as a whole. It is used as a resource by shareholders, corporations, investment analysts, brokerage firms, financial media, government, and educational institutions.

Letter to NASDAQ Companies, NASD Members, and Friends

In 1987, the NASD launched a series of major initiatives that will improve the operation and regulation of the NASDAQ market for years to come. Investor protection, quality-of-market issues, and improved services continue to be the principal agenda items.

Improving Market Access

After the October market break, we promptly took steps to enhance NASDAQ market capacity and efficiency by strengthening the Small Order Execution System (SOES) and by developing an Order Confirmation Transaction (OCT) service to facilitate access to market makers. These actions will significantly increase the number of orders executed over the computer, without the need for telephones. The Report of the Presidential Task Force characterized the NASD's response to the events of October as "swift and dramatic."

Corporate Governance Standards

In the area of corporate governance, the NASD established mandatory standards for companies that list their securities on the NASDAQ National Market System (NASDAQ/NMS). The rules require NASDAQ/NMS companies to maintain a minimum of two independent directors on their boards, have an audit committee composed of a majority of independent directors, hold annual shareholder meetings, conduct appropriate reviews of all related party transactions, and meet other standards.

Shareholder Voting Rights

In an effort to resolve a difficult problem, the NASD took the lead among U.S. markets in proposing a uniform rule on shareholder voting rights — one that embraces the principle of equal shareholder voting rights but allows for legitimate exceptions. The rule was proposed in the form of a qualification standard for domestic NASDAQ companies.

The general premise of the rule is to prohibit issuers of NASDAQ securities from issuing any class of securities or taking any other corporate action that would nullify, restrict, or disparately reduce the per-share voting rights of holders of an outstanding class or classes of publicly traded securities of the issuer.

System Upgrade

To serve the market's continuing growth, we upgraded the capacity of NASDAQ to 400 million shares per day. In addition, we began installing a new generation of terminals at securities firms and financial institutions. Called the NASDAQ Workstation,™ the new terminal is substantially more productive than the prior generation of equipment in that it is a PC-distributed data base with sophisticated software and a powerful new range of capabilities.

Investor Protection

In April 1987, the NASD established the Regulatory Review Task Force to undertake a comprehensive review of our regulatory policies, practices, and procedures. The final report of the task force, delivered to the NASD Board of Governors in March 1988, offered recommendations for strengthening the NASD's investor protection activities. The recommendations of the task force have been referred to the appropriate NASD committees and will thereafter be acted on by the NASD Board.

Surveillance of Non-NASDAQ OTC Stocks

Steps are underway to expand our surveillance and automation capabilities to embrace the "pink sheet" market, in which an estimated 11,000 non-NASDAQ stocks trade over the counter. We are currently awaiting SEC approval of our proposal to require daily reporting by members of price and volume information on these securities. These new requirements, coupled with our development of a soon-to-be-implemented "electronic bulletin board" service, will upgrade the quality of information available on securities that trade in this market and improve the NASD's ability to regulate and surveil this activity.

International Developments

Internationally, NASDAQ's quotation link with the International Stock Exchange in London was expanded to include transaction information on more securities. An interface of the automatic execution systems of both markets is planned for 1989. An additional link, between NASDAQ and the Stock Exchange of Singapore, has also been forged.

NASDAQ service that permits NASD members to make markets from locations outside the U.S. for the first time was introduced in the U.K. To support NASD members in Europe and to serve as liaison to NASDAQ companies overseas — both current and prospective — the NASD opened an office in London.

Preparing NASDAQ for Tomorrow

In 1987, the NASD established a special committee consisting of representatives of individual investors, institutional investors, NASDAQ issuers, securities traders, and members of the academic community to develop recommendations to ensure that NASDAQ's future market structure and systems anticipate investor needs in what is certain to be an increasingly demanding environment.

The Promise of 1988

In the last decade, the NASDAQ market expanded from 2,456 companies and 2,575 securities to 4,706 companies and 5,537 securities. During that same period, share volume and dollar volume increased 20 times — from 1.9 billion shares to 37.9 billion, and from $25 billion to $500 billion.

* * * * *

With the steps we are taking to make our market more efficient and to ensure market integrity, we are confident that NASDAQ's momentum will continue to build.

Repeating 1986's performance, all of NASDAQ's 10 highest trading days occurred during one calendar year — 1987.

[1]Reported share volume in NASDAQ/NMS issues, which accounted for 71 percent of total share volume in 1987, is calculated from real-time, last-sale reports entered into the NASDAQ System within 90 seconds of the time the transaction occurred, in the same manner that volume in exchange-listed securities is reported to the Consolidated Tape Association (CTA). Volume in non-NMS issues is calculated from end-of-day market-maker reports to the System in each security. The net change in the market maker's inventory plus the number of shares that he has both bought and sold (i.e., the larger of his total buys or total sells) is accumulated by the System from all market-maker reports, aggregating to total volume for non-NMS.

[2]NASDAQ daily dollar volume is the sum of each issue's daily share volume multiplied by the closing inside bid price, except that for NASDAQ/NMS securities, the daily share volume is multiplied by the last-sale price. Monthly dollar volume is the total of daily dollar volume for all trading days in the month.

[3]The price of an average share traded is computed by dividing dollar volume by share volume.

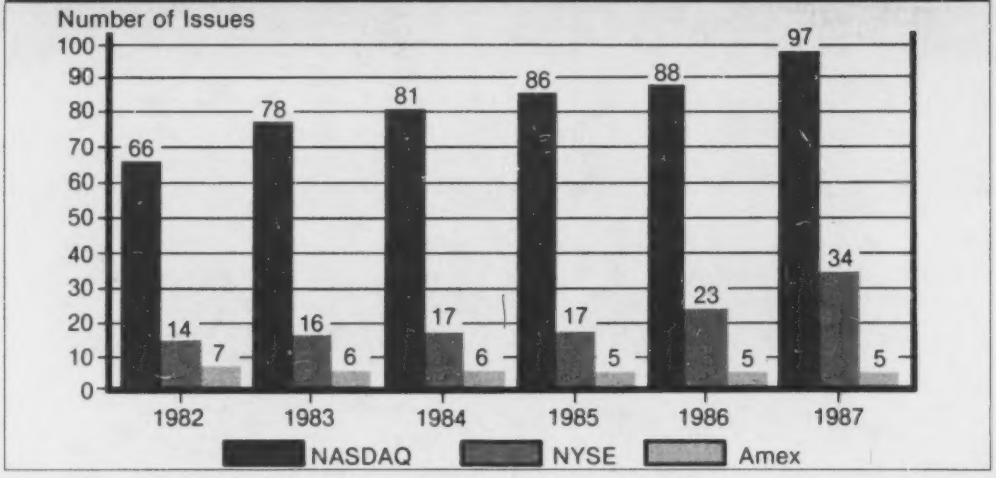
Foreign Securities and ADRs on NASDAQ in 1987

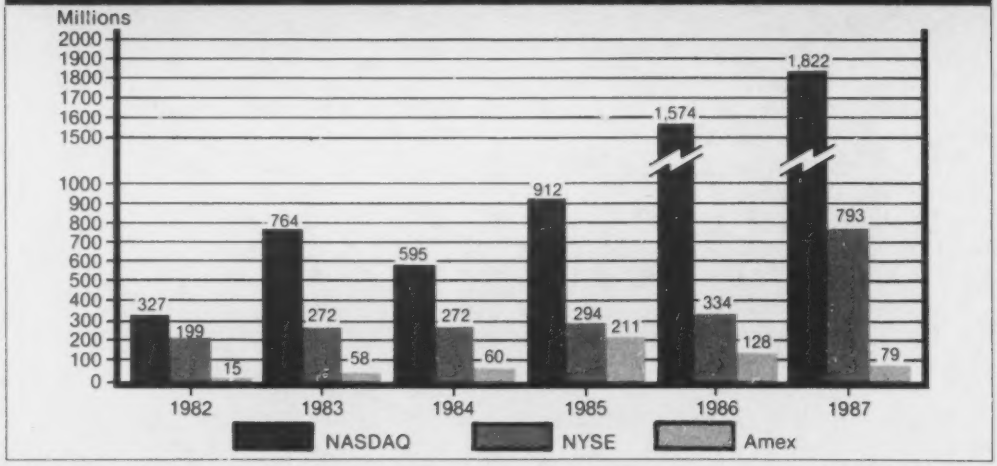
NASDAQ is home to more American Depositary Receipts (ADRs) than any other U.S. market — more than twice as many as on the NYSE and Amex combined. Seven of every 10 ADR shares traded in the U.S. take place in the NASDAQ market.

NASDAQ ADR Issues vs. NYSE and Amex 1982-1987



In 1987, trading in the NASDAQ market for 204 foreign securities and 97 ADRs accounted for 2.9 billion shares, an increase of more than 22 percent from 1986.

NASDAQ ADR Volume Vs. NYSE and Amex 1982-1987



Foreign securities and ADRs represented 7.7 percent of total NASDAQ share volume in 1987. Dollar volume of trading in these issues amounted to $27.3 billion, nearly 10 percent greater than 1987's level of $24.9 billion. Foreign securities and ADRs represented 5.5 percent of 1987 dollar volume.

21-25	75	401,191	81	382,945
26 or more	59	760,267	60	749,752

Each NASDAQ security must have at least two market makers before it can enter the NASDAQ System. This prerequisite preserves the competitive environment that is the hallmark of NASDAQ's multiple market-maker system. A strong, positive relationship exists between the size of an issue, as measured by market capitalization, and the number of active market makers.

NASDAQ National Market System
Stock Table

Explanation of Table

- The symbol by which the security is identified in the NASDAQ System, on NASDAQ terminals, and on desktop terminals.
- The name of the issue.
- The 1987 share volume in the security. If the security entered NASDAQ/NMS during 1987, this figure is a combination of the 1987 volume in the security both before and after it entered NASDAQ/NMS.
- The 1987 high, low, and last-sale prices for the security. The high and low prices may be either bid quotations (intra-day or end-of-day) or actual transaction prices, depending on whether the high and low prices were established before or after the security entered NASDAQ/NMS. The 1987 closing price is always an actual transaction price.
- The 1986 closing price. If the security entered NASDAQ/NMS during 1987, this is a quotation and not a transaction price. If the security had a stock split or dividend during 1987, as shown by the † symbol, the 1986 closing price has been adjusted accordingly. For example, if the actual 1986 closing price was 20 and the stock was split 2-for-1 in 1987, the 1986 closing price is 10.
- The net change and the percent change, reflecting the difference between the 1986 closing price and the 1987 closing price. An asterisk [*] indicates that the security entered the NASDAQ System during 1987.

NOTE: According to Federal Reserve Board regulations, all NASDAQ/NMS issues are automatically marginable.

Finding a Stock Listing

The alphabetical order of the stock entries is based on the official name of the company as recorded on its 10-K and 10-Q filings with the SEC and the NASD. The rules used to alphabetize the stock table are the character sequence rules of dBASE III. When alphabetizing listings, dBASE III assigns a value to each character for purposes of sequencing the entries. To locate an entry, determine if its name contains a non-literal character, and then look higher or lower in the list. Company names were alphabetized before being abbreviated.

Common shares are listed first. Securities other than common follow in this order: subsequent classes of common (Cl A, Cl B, etc.); debentures (Dbs); preferred shares (Pfd); subsequent classes of preferred (Pfd A, Pfd B, etc.); units (Uts); warrants (Wts); subsequent classes of units or warrants (Uts 89, Wts 89, Uts A, Wts A, etc.).

Explanation of Table

The following stock table covers the 2,492 NASDAQ issues not on the NASDAQ National Market System; 573 advanced over the close of 1986, 1,758 declined, and 161 remained unchanged.

- The symbol by which the security is identified in the NASDAQ System, on NASDAQ terminals, and on desktop terminals.
- The name of the issue, followed by (M) if eligible for purchase in margin accounts.
- The 1987 share volume in the security.
- The 1987 high bid price, either intra-day or end-of-day.
- The 1987 low bid price, either intra-day or end-of-day.
- The 1987 closing bid price.
- The 1986 final adjusted inside bid price. Adjustments made for stock splits or dividends are indicated by the † symbol.
- The net change and percent change, reflecting the difference between the 1986 final adjusted inside bid price and the 1987 closing bid price. An asterisk [*] indicates that the security entered the NASDAQ System during 1987 and that the changes from 1986 are actually the changes from the closing inside bid price on its first day of quotation in 1987.

Finding a Stock Listing

The alphabetical order of the stock entries is based on the official name of the company as recorded on its 10-K and 10-Q filings with the SEC and the NASD. The rules used to alphabetize the stock table are the character sequence rules of dBASE III. When alphabetizing listings, dBASE III assigns a value to each character for purposes of sequencing the entries. To locate an entry, determine if its name contains a non-literal character, and then look higher or lower in the list. Company names were alphabetized before being abbreviated.

Common shares are listed first. Securities other than common follow in this order: subsequent classes of common (Cl A, Cl B, etc.); debentures (Dbs); preferred shares (Pfd); subsequent classes of preferred (Pfd A, Pfd B, etc.); units (Uts); warrants (Wts); subsequent classes of units or warrants (Uts 89, Wts 89, Uts A, Wts A, etc.).

The NASDAQ Market: Improved Systems and Increased Capacities

The NASDAQ System's central computer complex operated throughout 1987 with an uptime of 98.9 percent. The System experienced no downtime whatsoever during the week of October 19-23, when it processed 1.2 billion shares, 63 percent more than the weekly average in the first nine months of the year.

To keep pace with NASDAQ volume, the NASD boosted System capacity to 400 million shares per day. A new generation of UNISYS processors was acquired to increase capacity at both the Trumbull, Connecticut, and the new Rockville, Maryland, computer facilities. This $9 million hardware upgrade also supports the new NASDAQ Workstation™ terminal and other market services.

Back-Up Facility Receives Test

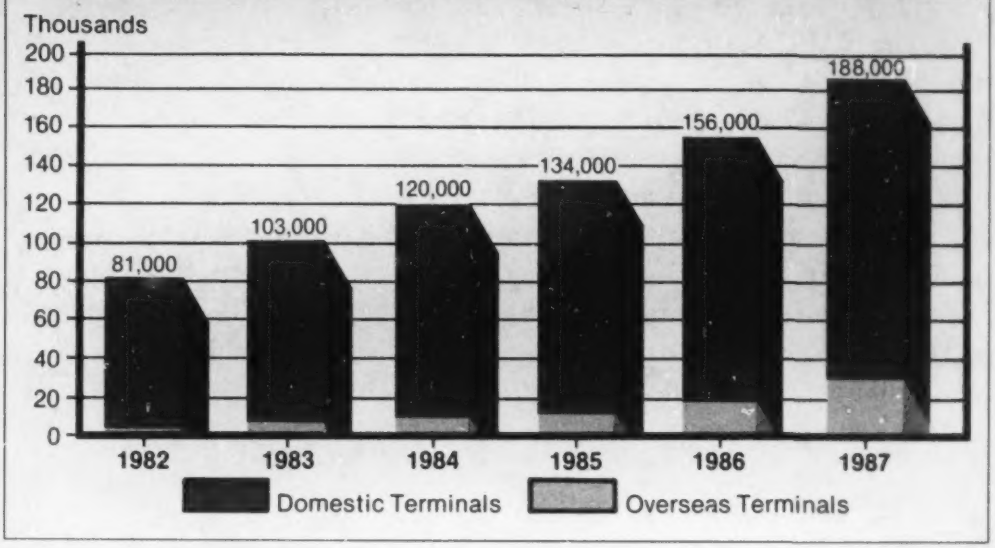
NASDAQ's disaster-recovery and back-up system — the only system of its kind among major world securities markets — passed its first real-life test in December when a power-company outage shut down the main computer facility in Trumbull. The back-up site bridged service until power was restored in Trumbull.

The Rockville facility is designed to continue operation of the NASDAQ market in the event of an outage in Trumbull or at a major NASDAQ communication facility. In 1987, the new 110,000-square-foot, Rockville operations center, which houses about 350 automation and administrative support personnel, was named the Gordon S. Macklin Building in honor of the NASD's former president of 17 years.

System Service Performance

For each of the 253 trading days in 1987, the NASDAQ System handled an average of 1.9 million quote requests and updates. The peak on-line traffic day occurred on October 20, when subscribers transmitted almost 3.3 million inquiries to the central processor.

Growth in NASDAQ Level 1 Quotation Terminals



NASDAQ Opens First Overseas Office

NASDAQ opened its first European office — NASDAQ International — in the heart of London's financial district. The office serves as a liaison to United Kingdom and European companies seeking to list on NASDAQ directly or through American Depositary Receipts. For companies already on NASDAQ, the office serves as an information source and channel to the U.S.

In addition, NASDAQ International provides on-site support to NASDAQ's link with the SEAQ (London's Stock Exchange Automated Quotations) system, as well as the growing number of NASD members in London and elsewhere in Europe.

NASDAQ Expands Link With London, Adds Singapore, Assists AIBD

The NASDAQ communications link with the SEAQ system in London, which has been in operation since April 1986, was expanded in 1987 to include quotations and transaction information on more than 700 securities from the two markets. Automatic intercontinental execution and trade confirmation over the link are scheduled to become available in 1989.

A trans-Pacific link between NASDAQ and the SESDAQ (Stock Exchange of Singapore Dealing and Automated Quotations) system became fully operational in March 1988, with a daily exchange of quotations on 35 NASDAQ securities traded in both markets.

For trade comparison in the Eurobond market, NASDAQ is providing assistance to the Association of International Bond Dealers (AIBD) on a system called Trade Accounting and Reconciliation (TRAX). NASDAQ is designing a common communications front end that will enable TRAX and NASDAQ's proposed Automated Confirmation Transaction (ACT) service to be linked for international trade comparison. ACT is a service that will automate many of the post-execution steps in the processing of orders.

Offshore Market Plan Conceived

In 1987, the NASD began development of a centralized automated market for private placements. The new NASDAQ-like system, called Private Offerings and Reciprocal Trading Through Automated Linkages (PORTAL), will provide a highly regulated market for qualified investors to trade unregistered, world-class international securities meeting SEC conditions for exemption from the disclosure requirements under the Securities Act of 1933.

The overseas network of terminals carrying NASDAQ data expanded in 1987 by 54 percent. At year end, 30,677 terminals, from a population of 187,525, were located in 48 foreign countries. Many foreign-operated data vendors, such as Reuters and Telekurs, as well as other U.S.-based vendors (among them Quotron, ADP, and Bridge Data) market NASDAQ securities information across the globe.

NASDAQ's Commitment to Serving Companies

To keep NASDAQ companies up to date on developments in the NASDAQ market, the NASD publishes a variety of informative materials for companies and sponsors numerous seminars and workshops.

Information Services

- Monthly Statistical Report (MSR) — Summarizing the prior month's activity in a stock, the MSR includes daily and weekly high, low, and last-sale prices, net changes, share volume, number of trades, and the names of the market makers in the stock. The MSR also includes general market information, such as daily and weekly NASDAQ and NASDAQ/NMS volume figures and Composite Index closing values.

- NASDAQ Notes — This monthly newsletter contains brief news items of general interest to NASDAQ companies, highlights current market activity, announces seminars of interest to NASDAQ issuers, and lists additions to the NASDAQ National Market System.

- Investor Relations Report — A quarterly newsletter, the IR Report offers useful information to NASDAQ company investor relations managers.

Education Services

- Investor Relations/Market Maker Seminars — These in-depth workshops are held two or three times a year in major cities. The seminars include a series of concurrent work sessions, each devoted to a single subject, led by an expert in that particular field. Although participants at these seminars represent a cross section of the diverse universe of NASDAQ companies, they share common concerns related to managing effective programs in investor and financial relations. The interplay among members of this diverse yet interrelated group provides a creative atmosphere for exchanging ideas.

- Advanced Investor Relations/Market Maker Symposium — Specifically designed for experienced investor relations professionals who want to fine-tune their skills, this advanced symposium allows participants to analyze the financials of three hypothetical NASDAQ companies, interpret the results, and integrate the strategies into specific investor relations programs for attendees. The program features a case-study format.

- New NASDAQ Company Orientation Meetings — The NASD provides a six-hour orientation program for companies whose securities are newly admitted to the NASDAQ System. Company executives learn firsthand how the NASDAQ market works. A demonstration of the NASDAQ System explains how market makers update quotations, report transactions, and execute customer orders through the NASD's Small Order Execution System. The topics participants discuss with the staff include the obligations and responsibilities of being a NASDAQ company and the functioning and operation of the NASDAQ System.

Contact Program

The NASDAQ Company Contact Program is a no-charge, on-site consulting service available to companies included on the NASDAQ System. Through this program, NASDAQ companies receive assistance on a wide variety of issues, such as relations with market makers, regulatory changes that affect companies, the operation of the NASDAQ market, and working effectively with investment bankers and securities analysts.

NASDAQ companies are visited by NASD representatives — including regional directors, regional representatives, and consultants — on a regular basis. Special visits can also be arranged.

Although most company contacts are with the Chairman, President, or Chief Executive Officer, the consultants will discuss any subject important to the company with the most appropriate individual or group. Consultants are also available to meet with the boards of NASDAQ companies and, on occasion, with shareholders at companies' annual meetings.

Call (202) 728-8333 to request a visit or to obtain a brochure describing the NASDAQ Company Contact Program.

Regulatory Actions Affecting the NASDAQ Market

In 1987, the NASD took several steps to improve the quality of the NASDAQ market and strengthen its regulatory mechanisms.

NASD Addresses Shareholder Voting Rights Issue

In March 1987, the NASD Board proposed to the SEC the adoption of a uniform rule by each equity securities market that would emphasize the principle of equal shareholder voting rights but allow for legitimate exceptions. The 1987 discussion of the issue was triggered when the New York Stock Exchange applied to the SEC in September 1986 for permission to abandon its longstanding one-share, one-vote standard.

In May 1987, the NASD became the first self-regulatory organization to submit a shareholder voting rights proposal to its membership. The rule was proposed in the form of a qualifications standard for domestic NASDAQ companies. The general premise of the rule is to prohibit issuers of NASDAQ securities from issuing any class of securities or taking any other corporate action that would nullify, restrict, or disparately reduce the per-share voting rights of holders of an outstanding class or classes of publicly traded securities of the issuer.

In the absence of a similar action by other major markets, the SEC published for comment a shareholder voting rights proposal of its own, modeled closely after the NASD proposal. The SEC took this action when, after months of discussion, it appeared that the major markets would not reach a consensus.

NASD Proposes Short-Sale Rule, Releases Figures

Responding to a 1986 petition by the NASD, the SEC published for comments a proposal that would prohibit "shorting into a secondary." The rule would prohibit covering short sales of an issuer's securities with securities purchased from an offering by that issuer if the short sales were made between the time of the filing of the registration statement and the beginning of the stock distribution. Shorting into the secondary may result in a lower offering price and thereby deprive an issuer of proceeds that would have been realized had the market not been subject to short selling. Final SEC action is still pending.

1987 was the first full year in which the NASD began collecting and publicly disseminating, via the financial press, open short-interest positions of members and customers in all NASDAQ securities. Broker-dealers report monthly open short-interest positions for each NASDAQ security; the total for each stock reflects the number of shares sold short by all NASD members and their customers.

Quantitative Standards

In 1987, the SEC approved amendments to Schedule D of the NASD's By-Laws, the effect of which was to transfer from the SEC to the NASD the authority to prescribe the standards for the designation of NASDAQ National Market System securities. Under the NASD designation rules, which were approved as part of the SEC action, an issuer must meet a series of quantitative standards — one set for operating companies, another for development companies — and non-quantitative (or qualitative) requirements, generally described as corporate governance standards.

Qualitative Standards — Corporate Governance Requirements

The new corporate governance standards for NASDAQ National Market System (NASDAQ/NMS) companies codify the existing practices of the great majority of these companies and provide protection to their stockholders.

To allow time for companies that need to secure shareholder approval to achieve compliance, the new corporate governance standards will become effective on February 1, 1989, for issuers with securities on NASDAQ/NMS on August 4, 1987. For companies joining NASDAQ/NMS after August 4, 1987, the rules are immediately effective.

These rules require a NASDAQ/NMS company to:

- Maintain a minimum of two independent directors on its board.
- Maintain an audit committee composed of a majority of independent directors.
- Provide shareholders with annual, quarterly, and other reports.
- Examine all related-party trades for potential conflicts of interest.
- Hold an annual meeting of shareholders and provide notice of such meeting to the NASD.
- Specify in its by-laws a quorum of not less than 33 $^{1}/_{3}$ percent of the outstanding shares of the company's common stock.
- Solicit proxies and provide proxy statements for all meetings of shareholders, as well as file such proxy solicitations with the NASD.
- Execute a NASDAQ/NMS listing agreement.

Foreign issuers may be exempted if compliance would be in contravention of law or business practice in the issuer's country of domicile.

Preparing for Tomorrow

In 1987, the NASD took steps to prepare the NASDAQ market for the future by critically examining its market regulations and a variety of issues relating to market structure and quality of the markets.

Regulatory Review Task Force

In April 1987, the NASD created a Regulatory Review Task Force, chaired by former SEC Commissioner A.A. Sommer, Jr., to conduct a top-to-bottom review of NASD regulatory policies, practices, and procedures. The report of the task force was presented to the NASD Board in March 1988. In it, the task force states that the NASD's principal regulatory programs are soundly managed and comprehensive in scope. The report does, however, offer a number of recommendations designed to make the NASD a stronger and more effective self-regulatory organization. Each recommendation will be reviewed and acted upon by the appropriate NASD committee and, when appropriate, the NASD Board.

In formulating its recommendations, the task force considered several factors, including the conceptual soundness of existing regulatory procedures, the adequacy of staffing and automation support dedicated to regulatory units, the extent of coordination among the NASD's regulatory units, and the NASD's interaction with other regulators. The task force also considered the need for special regulatory initiatives to cope with new and derivative products, internationalization, and other fundamental changes affecting regulation of the securities business.

Special Committee on Market Quality

In December 1987, the NASD appointed a special committee of the regulatory task force to examine a number of structural and quality-of-market issues. The NASD asked the committee to make recommendations to ensure that NASDAQ's market structure and systems meet and anticipate investor needs in an increasingly demanding market environment. Areas that the committee is examining include standards for NASDAQ companies and market makers; market liquidity; market-maker capital and obligations; the adequacy of communications systems; and the impact of international trading. The committee is expected to report to the NASD Board in mid-1988.

New and Improved Automated Market Services

During 1987, the NASD introduced or completed developmental work on a variety of member and market services.

Small Order Execution System

In December 1984, the NASD inaugurated the Small Order Execution System (SOES) for the automatic, computer-to-computer execution of customer orders of 1,000 shares or less without the usual telephone call between buyer and seller. SOES was designed to serve the individual investor and to save brokers and market makers time in the execution of small orders.

SOES executions for 1987 totaled 2.17 million with 591.8 million shares traded. NASDAQ/NMS activity accounted for 88.6 percent of this total. Monthly executions in NASDAQ securities through year-end 1987 averaged 180,811, with an average monthly volume of 49.3 million shares traded.

On heavy volume days, SOES volume increases far more rapidly than overall volume. In 1987, use of the system was up by almost 40 percent over 1985.

The hectic events of October 1987 demonstrated a need to increase usage of SOES. On November 16th, less than one month after the break, the NASD became the first stock market to take steps to enhance market capacity and efficiency. The NASD Board approved several changes in SOES to significantly increase the number of customer orders executed over the computer, without the use of telephones. These and other planned improvements will help ensure that investors have efficient access to the NASDAQ market, especially during periods of high volume.

The more significant changes being made to SOES are:

- Mandatory participation in SOES for all market makers in NASDAQ/NMS securities; currently, participation in SOES is voluntary.

- Continuous operation of SOES in securities when markets are locked or crossed, with executions initially directed to the locking and crossing quotes.

- Suspension for 20 business days from market making in a security for a market maker that withdraws for reasons other than those specified under a narrowly defined excused withdrawal procedure.

These and related changes will strengthen market makers' commitments and make SOES more useful to investors, especially during fast-moving, volatile markets.

SOES Limit-Order File

The NASD also began work to develop a limit-order file capability in SOES, which will permit SOES subscribers to enter limit orders that are reasonably related to the market. If the order cannot be executed immediately, SOES will hold it until the inside market reaches the limit price. When the NASDAQ inside market equals or betters the limit price, the system will attempt to execute the order. This enhancement to the NASDAQ System is expected to go on-line in 1988.

Order Confirmation Transaction

Another NASDAQ service implemented to improve access to the NASDAQ market by market makers is the Order Confirmation Transaction (OCT). OCT permits a dealer to direct orders of up to 100,000 shares — both customer and proprietary — to another dealer via computer, without the use of the telephone. This new, electronic-mail-like service also permits screen-based negotiation of orders between dealers. Orders executed via this service are automatically reported to the NASDAQ trade-reporting system, and transmitted to the clearing corporation as a compared trade.

NASDAQ Rolls Out a More Powerful Terminal

In 1987, the NASD unveiled a third generation of computer terminals for NASDAQ trading. The new NASDAQ Workstation terminal, a dynamically distributed data base service with 30 functions, runs on a personal computer and increases operating speed by 400 percent. In addition to all the traditional services offered to NASDAQ Level 2/3 subscribers, the terminal combines these key features:

- Market minding — provides automatic updates on up to 30 securities.
- Limit alerts — notify the subscriber when a security breaks a specified last-sale price or bid/ask parameter.
- Personal tickers — allow the subscriber to view changes in the inside market, executions, individual market-maker quotes, or volume parameters for up to 300 securities.
- Unsolicited messages — list immediate reports of the day's trade executions, for example, SOES and OCT items.

Information updated on the terminal screen flashes and is color-highlighted to draw the trader's attention. Customized pages let the user tailor the NASDAQ services to his or her individual needs. A multi-function menu line makes it easy to select a service, and users can program a single keystroke to access their most frequently used functions.

As the NASDAQ Workstation terminals become more universally adopted by the industry, the number of queries to NASDAQ's main data processing center will decrease. One of the major advantages of this terminal is the response time for requests, which is dramatically reduced because the dynamically updated data are stored in the individual PC's hard disk, eliminating the need for the System to transmit the request to its central processor.

Two NASDAQ Services Improve Information Access

The NASD further improved access to NASDAQ market information with the introduction of an electronic ticker service and automated directory:

- The ticker service provides trading rooms and branch offices at major brokerages with a continuous electronic tape of all trades in NASDAQ/NMS securities as they are reported.

- The automated symbol directory enables NASDAQ Level 2/3 subscribers to call up market-maker and issuer information on their terminal screens. Also, a fifth-character geographic identifier added to market-maker identifiers allows subscribers to access telephone numbers of market makers' branch offices.

More NASDAQ Services Coming Soon

- Advanced Computerized Execution System (ACES). As an enhancement of SOES, the NASD is creating ACES. While SOES is limited to orders of 1,000 shares in top-tier NASDAQ securities and 500 shares in other NASDAQ issues, ACES is a computer-assisted system that will allow automated execution of orders of any size. It will be operated on behalf of participating market makers and will be tailored to their specific requirements and business practices. ACES will execute orders at inside prices on behalf of participating market makers for orders received from specified firms, in specified securities, up to certain specified amounts.

- Automated Confirmation Transaction (ACT) Service. This service will help streamline the processing of conventionally handled trades, i.e., those negotiated over the telephone. After traders negotiate by phone, they will be able to enter the trade details into the new system for automatic matching or display on the contra party's terminal. When all aspects of the trade are properly entered, it will be treated as locked-in and automatically reported to the trade dissemination system and the clearing corporation.

The NASD uses sophisticated automated systems for continuous surveillance of the NASDAQ market. Price and volume parameters are set in the System for every NASDAQ security so that unusual trading patterns are automatically flagged for immediate review.

Analysts in the NASD Market Surveillance Section, which is the front line in the regulation of trading in NASDAQ securities, respond to these alerts by investigating the causes of unusual price movements or sudden swings in volume.

Market Surveillance Statistics for the Year

In 1987, automated market surveillance systems for monitoring NASDAQ trading triggered 19,775 on-line price and volume alerts leading to 249 formal investigations. The NASD's Market Surveillance Committee, which is the member-controlled disciplinary body for the NASDAQ market, reviews each investigation for apparent rule violations.

The Market Surveillance Committee in 1987 ordered a number of disciplinary actions for market-related violations — such as noncompliance with SOES rules, manipulation, fraudulent mark-ups, and marking the close — and meted out penalties that included suspensions and fines totaling more than $192,000.

The Market Surveillance Section also institutes quotation halts of NASDAQ securities, typically to allow a company sufficient time — generally one half hour after the news crosses the major news services — to disseminate material news that is likely to affect the price of its stock. During 1987, 1,033 quotation halts were imposed.

Improving NASDAQ Market Surveillance

As part of its ongoing efforts to improve and strengthen its regulatory programs, the NASD in 1987 retained Nolan, Norton & Co., a subsidiary of Peat Marwick Main & Co., to review, evaluate, and propose recommendations for improving the NASD's market surveillance systems and procedures, including, among other things, increased use of predictive technologies and statistical analysis. This study was recommended by the Staff Committee on Insider Trading.

To augment this work and to provide oversight in this project, Nolan Norton established a technology council consisting of professors in the disciplines of econometrics, statistics, artificial intelligence, and corporate science. The council includes Franco Modigliani and Robert M. Solow — two Nobel Laureate professors from MIT — and Roger C. Schank, Chairman of the Computer Science Department at Yale University and Director of the university's Artificial Intelligence Laboratory.

This is a two-stage study: The first phase will evaluate and recommend improvements in the on-line, off-line, and manual facilities and procedures for surveillance of trading in both NASDAQ and non-NASDAQ OTC markets. The second phase will address the long-term operational improvements in the surveillance of these markets, which may entail the use of new techniques or data processing technologies. Both phases will be completed in mid-1988.

Automated Surveillance Expands to All OTC Issues

In December, the NASD filed a proposal with the SEC that will require members to electronically report price and volume information for principal trades in an estimated 11,000 "pink sheet" issues on a daily basis. These rules will also require members to document their best-execution efforts in those issues. In conjunction, the NASD is also developing an expanded field-examination program of members active in this area, and creating an electronic "OTC bulletin board" that would permit subscribers to access market makers' quotes and indications of interest in non-NASDAQ securities.

Broker-Dealer Surveillance

The NASD conducts a nationwide, on-site broker-dealer inspection program. A staff of examiners performed 4,672 examinations of member firms and reviewed 5,335 customer complaints in 1987.

As a result of 826 formal disciplinary actions ordered, the NASD's District Business Conduct Committees rendered 507 disciplinary decisions and accepted 263 letters of acceptance, waiver, and consent, and five summary complaints. These actions led to the expulsion of 17 firms, the barring of 169 individuals, the suspension of nine firms and 94 individuals, and the imposition of $2,250,000 in fines.

NASDAQ Education

As a complement to its investor protection and quality-of-market endeavors, the NASD is working to further NASDAQ market education in a variety of ways:

■ The NASDAQ Handbook: The Stock Market of Tomorrow — Today — This first complete reference book on the NASDAQ market was compiled by the NASD and published in July 1987 by Probus Publishing Company, Chicago. The book chronicles NASDAQ's growth and international dimension and provides a comprehensive look at the current workings and future direction of the NASDAQ market. The handbook profiles NASDAQ market investors, provides an overview of NASDAQ companies, offers practical investment advice, and analyzes recent trends in liquidity, economic efficiency, trading characteristics, and market technology. Its 30 chapters, covering 577 pages, were contributed by corporate executives, scholars, consultants, journalists, and investment professionals. (To order, call Probus toll free at 1-800-222-2990, Dept. N, $24.95.)

■ Stock Market Game. For the 1987-1988 school year, more than 3,000 NASDAQ/NMS stocks have been added to the Securities Industry Association's Stock Market Game, in which 400,000 secondary and elementary students in 44 states compete in a simulation exercise designed to enrich economic education. The NASD provides weekly prices on NASDAQ/NMS stocks, supplies teacher/student market guides, and provides financial support to the program.

■ Center for Research in Security Prices. Financed jointly by the NASD and Dimensional Fund Advisers, Inc., the center at the University of Chicago in 1987 established a comprehensive data base of historical prices for NASDAQ common stocks. This data base opens new avenues for original research by the financial services industry and the academic community in examining the comparative characteristics of companies and the markets for their securities.

■ Wharton School Conference. The NASD participated in the 1987 Annual Seminar of the Rodney L. White Center for Financial Research at the University of Pennsylvania, which was devoted exclusively to the NASDAQ market.

■ ADR Conference in London. The NASD cosponsored with the Financial Times a conference in London on American Depositary Receipts. The program benefitted U.K. and other European companies interested in accessing the U.S. capital markets.

■ Vanderbilt University's Financial Markets Research Center. In 1987, the NASD became a supporting member of this new center established at the Owen Graduate School of Management, Vanderbilt University. The center fosters research to improve understanding of developments in financial markets, financial instruments, and financial institutions. Research on the NASDAQ market is expected to be one of the center's major undertakings.

Print, Electronic Media Feature NASDAQ

The principal newspaper stock table for the NASDAQ market reports volume and high, low, and closing prices for NASDAQ National Market System securities. This table, covering the more than 3,000 NASDAQ/NMS issues, appears in 180 newspapers — 177 in the U.S. and three overseas.

A smaller table of 1,000 to 2,000 NASDAQ/NMS securities appears in 50 newspapers, 48 in the U.S. and two overseas. Several publications, including Media General's Financial Weekly, The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, Investor's Daily, Barron's, The Los Angeles Times, and the Newark Star-Ledger, carry more NASDAQ data than the table of NASDAQ/NMS issues.

Some newspapers that do not publish the major NASDAQ stock tables carry regional lists of NASDAQ securities, assembled by the press wire services and consisting of 200 to 500 issues, or local lists of 10 to 100 issues. The NASD has 150 Local Quotation Committees across the U.S. to keep the local lists consistent with the interests of local investors.

Many newspapers, magazines, and television shows in 1987 provided feature coverage of the NASDAQ market.

Electronic Media Coverage

Throughout the day, the Dow Jones News Service and Reuters News Service disseminate the top 10 NASDAQ/NMS share-volume leaders and the NASDAQ/NMS and NASDAQ indexes. At the end of the day, they also carry NASDAQ volume, advances, declines, new highs, and new lows.

The Nightly Business Report brings NASDAQ "Stocks in the Spotlight," most active issues, volume, advances, declines, and index performances to 1.8 million daily viewers on 260 Public Broadcasting Service stations.

Financial News Network (FNN) runs a ticker display of NASDAQ/NMS trades across viewers' television screens.

Cable News Network (CNN), the AP and UPI Broadcast Wires, and the CBS and Mutual radio networks provide extensive NASDAQ coverage. NASDAQ also provides daily information to United Stations Radio Network (New York), which provides transmissions to more than 2,500 radio stations. In total, some 3,000 radio stations nationwide report NASDAQ statistics.

■ NASDAQ Company Directory — Published semi-annually, the directory lists the company's name and headquarters' address; its NASDAQ security symbol and its standard industrial classification (SIC) code; and the name, title, and telephone number of the company official responsible for investor relations and media contacts. ($5; $10 beginning July 1)

■ Why NASDAQ? — An introduction to NASDAQ, this booklet explains why U.S. and overseas companies make NASDAQ their market of choice.

■ Reference Guide for NASDAQ Companies — This publication provides practical information to help NASDAQ companies fulfill their responsibilities as publicly held companies. The handbook includes information on financial reporting requirements, fees, margin criteria, NASDAQ/NMS qualification criteria, market-maker rules, and guidelines for disseminating material news. ($5)

■ Reporting Requirements for NASDAQ Companies — This booklet explains the NASD and SEC reporting requirements.

■ Corporate Governance: Qualitative Requirements for Companies in the NASDAQ National Market System — This brochure is a summary of the corporate governance standards for NASDAQ/NMS companies, which were approved by the SEC during 1987.

■ Investor Relations: A Practical Guide for NASDAQ Companies — This handbook, for investor relations beginners as well as experienced executives, provides information on developing and building a sound investor relations program. ($10)

■ NASDAQ Application Check List — This brochure contains a brief outline of steps to take in applying for inclusion in NASDAQ and the NASDAQ National Market System.

■ Trading in the NASDAQ National Market: A Question-and-Answer Guide for Investors and Registered Representatives — This pamphlet is frequently used by brokerage firms to help explain to their customers how NASDAQ/NMS works. ($.30)

■ Academic Studies — The NASD periodically distributes to NASDAQ companies and other interested persons important academic studies and research on the NASDAQ market. Also, from time to time, the NASD contracts with academic researchers and consulting experts to study matters of interest to NASDAQ market participants.

■ NASDAQ ADRs, The Preferred Way to Trade — This brochure explains the use of American Depositary Receipts by foreign companies to gain access to U.S. investors and the selection of NASDAQ as their preferred trading market. (Also available in French.)

■ Have You Heard About the New London Bridge? — In a question-and-answer format, this pamphlet describes the mechanics of the NASDAQ/London Stock Exchange electronic link through which quotation information is exchanged for hundreds of world-class stocks.
